4. RATIONALE

1. Risk factors

The major risks associated with this instrument are as follows:

<Risks associated with mechanism>

- i) Bankruptcy remoteness of SPV
- ii) Risk regarding bankruptcy of financial institution with which deposits are placed

<Risks associated with underlying assets>

- iii) Default or deferral risk of the subordinated loan

2. Analysis of risk factors

i) Bankruptcy remoteness of SPV

In consideration of the measures given below, R&I has deemed the bankruptcy remoteness of SPV to be high.

- a) Issuer is a kabushiki kaisha established in Japan, and its common stock is wholly owned by Holding Corporation. The operation of Holding Corporation is limited to the acquisition of interest in a kabushiki kaisha for the securitization of assets, etc., and Holding Corporation is subject to the following (b) and (c).
- b) Directors of Issuer are dispatched from Tokyo Kyodo Accounting Office.
- c) Parties to the scheme having a direct contractual relationship with Issuer have waived their right to compulsory execution against any of the assets of Issuer excluding nonexempt properties and pledged that they will not apply for bankruptcy against Issuer.
- d) The operation of Issuer is limited to those related to the issuance of the bonds.
- e) Issuer will not bear any debts other than those related to this scheme.

ii) Risk regarding bankruptcy of financial institution with which deposits are placed

Meiji Yasuda Life will remit the subordinated loan principal and interest payments by direct transfer to a deposit account in the name of Issuer.

Issuer's deposit account will initially be opened at Mitsubishi UFJ Trust and Banking Corp. If R&I's Short-term Rating of the financial institution where Issuer has a deposit account slips below a certain level, Issuer will transfer the account to a financial institution that has the said level of Short-term Rating or higher.

iii) Default or deferral risk of the subordinated loan

There is a possibility that a loss on the bonds will occur as a result of a shortfall of funds for the bond principal and interest payments when Meiji Yasuda Life, the obligor of the subordinated loan (the underlying asset), defaults. In addition, when the payment of the subordinated loan principal and interest is deferred, the payment of the bond principal and interest will be deferred (occurrence of payment shortfall). R&I evaluates the creditworthiness of the bonds based on the creditworthiness of the subordinated loan.

R&I has assigned a rating of A to Meiji Yasuda Life's subordinated loan. Please find the R&I News Release dated August 2, 2021 regarding the rating of Meiji Yasuda Life's subordinated loan (the underlying asset).

Following comprehensive evaluation of the given instrument, R&I has assigned the Long-term Issue Rating to the instrument.
